Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

Everyone, except those headed for Parchman, are expecting to have a grand time at court next week, and even some of them will prefer Parchman to the hot Bastile on Pearl Street.

We announce in advance that if there is not a Staten from Beat Five on a jury, we will contest the cases.

Ike Stone is still hot and bothered about the damn dams. Ike, the government is too busy to fool with dams now, and will be busted when the war is over.

Someone told us they thought Louie Friedman knew a little more about Dry Goods than Horse Flesh—Ask about his visit to the Fair Grounds Wednesday afternoon.

Some people in Grenada act strangely. They keep on feeding the fellow who fights everything they try to do.

Mrs. S. M. Jones, the best looking lady in the Indian Territory, sent in her dues Wednesday, just in time to get in under the wire.

The stork business picked up a bit this week. It looked a while as if somebody had pulled his tail feather out.

All of his friends regret to hear of the serious accident that befell Dr. and Mrs. S. S. Caruthers and wish for both of them a speedy and complete recovery.

Ross Collins and Wall Doxey each sent some propaganda to us for publication. It was enclosed in a Union Label envelope. It was thrown pell mell, hell bent into the waste basket. These candidates expect the country printers and publishers to furnish free publicity, but give ALL their pay business to the few Union shops in Jackson. Save your stamps, boys. Anything that goes into this newspaper must be paid for at ten cents a line for reading matter or 35 cents per col. inch for display matter.

Charter Members: this is the last issue that you have paid for.

Well, we have lived four years which is three years and eight months longer than some of our friends (?) predicted we would live, thanks to our subscribers, advertisers and those who let us print for them.

Our old war buddy, Cecil Jacks, is another prompt renewer. He started with Vol. 1, No. 1, and it looks like he is going to continue with us.

If I had not quit fooling with politics and politicians, I certainly could say a lot that might make goose pimples rise on the hide of some of these politicos.

Mrs. W. A. Pittman added to our assets to the tune of $1.50.

Charles Williams has gone back to his old love, White Way Cleaners.

Cotton is going up, but nobody seems to know why. If it were not for the government props, you could not get it picked on halves. Folks had better prepare, if they can, for the inevitable time when cotton and other things, like the tub, must sit on their own bottoms

Mitchell is still there.

Wonder what Fess Bailey is doing?

W. S. VanOsdell, one of our most prompt renewers has already had his paper marked up until August, 1942.

Miss Tommye Hamilton, hardworker at the Trust Bank, is on her vacation this week. Keene and the rest of them will hve to do some work this week.

Grenada Hairdressers Form Unit

The Grenada unit of the Associated Hairdressers of Mississippi was formed recently by Aruuh M. Maylon, unit director of National Beauty Forum. Surrounding towns to be affiliated.

Oakland and Coffeeville hairdressers attended the meeting and became part of the Grenada unit.

Officers elected are: Bertha McCurdy, president; Mary Baddly, Coffeeville, vice president; Addie Chains, secretary; Mrs. R. L. Bingham, treasurer; Mrs. J. S. Bailey, financial secretary; Mrs. Earl Hallam, historian; credential committee, Pauline Parker, Lucile Bobbitt, Mr. Wilson.

Courtesy committee, Elizabeth Hughes, Mrs. Earl Hanam.

Bertha McCurdy stated that the purpose of the association is to further the technical education of members training the standards of the professional and the individual hairdressers to that of any in the south.

Nationally known guest artist and lecturers will be brought to Grenada to keep members posted as to the latest methods in hair shaping and tapering, styling, brushwaving, permanent waving technique and cosmetic treatment.

Mr. Maylon stated that Mississippi ladies keep up with the latest fashion in clothing, but appear to be reluctant to change their hair styling to conform with latest fashions in millinery and dresses, also too many ladies are inbued with the thought that they can only wear one type hair style. This fallacy has been disproved by all leading hair stylists.

Stone Appeals To People In The Proposed Dam Area

To my friends in Yalobusha and Calhoun and Grenada Counties:

Do not be deceived or alarmed by the propaganda that the Yalobusha Skuna dam has been put on as a project, and is to be built. This is not true, and THE DAM CAN BE PREVENTED if you will make the effort.

Get up petitions in each neighborhood in each county protesting against the dam, and send to me at Coffeeville. Address your petition to the Congress of the United States.

My friends, this is a menace next in importance to the War proposition. Don't think because you have no land in Yalobusha or Skuna bottoms or the Creeks running into these rivers that you are not interested. The whole county will be ruined, part ruined by the dam, and the rest confiscated for taxes. All this land will be taken off the tax rolls, and the balance will not be able to stand the tax burden alone.

Will you get busy? I should have the protests of Eight Thousand citizens in ten days, and it doesn't cost you a copper to fight for your homes.

IKE STONE.

River. They are headed downstream.

Work of this nature on the Yalobusha River in this county has been going on spasmodicly for several years, working one week or month, then being abandoned.

The debris in the river channel and the underbrush and trees on the banks of the river have been major causes in the filling of the channel and the creation of sand bars ashore.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

The lovely home of Mrs. E. L. Morrow was the scene of a bridge club meeting Tuesday afternoon when club members and a group of non-member guests assembled for games at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Morrow had arranged lovely summer flowers, roses, zinnias and early cosmos in attractive pottery and placed them at points of vantage in the reception rooms to form a most charming background for the occasion.

Non-member guests included Mrs. Carothers's guest, Mrs. Stitt, of Little Rock and Mesdames H. D. Lane, Sr., W. W. Robinson, P. H. Youngblood and Jay Gore.

A guest prize, a lovely linen handkerchief, was given to Mrs. Youngblood for compiling high score.

With The County Agent

Our Mississippi State College is serving the farm people of our state this week and next week. This week the 4-H Club boys adn girls are having their annual Club Congress studying letter livestock, crop programs, home economics, and domestic science. Recreation occupies a prominent part of the week's program

Next week, July 30, 31, and August 1, approximately 1000 farm men and women of the state will gather at the college to study livestock and farming methods and to observe the livestock and crop experiments being conducted at the college. The farm women are studying food preservation, clothing, etc. Each day an outstanding agricultural speaker appears on the program. Recreation and entertainment are a part of the program each day.

Each year our county and home demonstration agents conduct a delegation of farm men and women to this program. All people are invited to attend and any desiring to make the trip this year should communicate with county or home demonstration agent

Messrs. E. C. Hayward, R. West and F. B. Duncan represented our County Cooperative at the annual state-wide meeting. Our cooperative is not making any money but is rendering a valuable service of meat curing and supplying our farmers with the best of seeds, feeds and fertilizers.

Messrs. John Adams, John Weir and J. M. Rose became afraid their hogs might have cholera (since hogs are are worth 10c per pound) and had them vaccinated this week.

John Adams planted some hairy vetch last fall for the first time in his life and fertilized it with basic slag. This field usually produces cotton about "knee high." This year the cotton following vetch is better than "waist high." All of his neighbors are watching this experiment and plan to plant vetch this fall to enrich their soil.

All farmers of the county are requested to bring any available "scrap aluminum to the county agent's office this week to contribute to the defense of "our U. S. A."

Aint they sweet, even if this phrase is objected to in some quarters.

"Grenada County News A Specialty; Other News Used Only in Emergencies"

THURSDAY, JULY 24, 1941

Grenada, Mississippi

Grenada, located on a high bluff above any conceivable flood on the Yalobusha River and near the confluence of that river with Bogue River, at the geographic center of North Mississippi, on the main line of the Illinois Central System and the terminus of a branch line of the Y. and M. V. Railroad, on U. S. 51 Highway and on State Highways No. 7 and No. 8, has shown a steady, healthy growth since its formation from two rival towns, Pittsburg and Tullahoma, on July 4, 1836.

Following the signing of the Dancing Rabbit Treaty with the Choctaw Indians in 1830, the lands ceded by the Indians to the U. S. Government were divided into sixteen counties, among them Yalobusha County. The land on which Grenada stands was deeded to Peggy Tribau and John Donley, each receiving a quarter section. This land was in the southern part of Yalobusha County and was on the bank of the Yalobusha River. Among other land-hungry men arriving here were Hiram G. Runnels, afterwards Governor of Mississippi, who bought the quarter section from Peggy Tribau, and Flanklin E. Plummer who bought the quarter section to the west from John Donley. Runnels layed out the town of Tullahoma, which lay east of the present Line Street (which is the section line between Sections 7 and 8) while Plummer layed out the town of Pittsburg. Bitter rivalry arose between the two towns and their inhabitants. Bloodshed was not uncommon. Plummer, being in Congress, secured the postoffice for Pittsburg. Pittsburg also had the newspaper. The hostility of one town for the other was perhaps due to the bitter personal and political animosity that existed between Plummer, a bitter opponent of President Andrew Jackson and Runnels, who was a great admirer of President Jackson.

The counsel of cooler heads finally prevailed and it was determined to unite the towns with a civil marriage ceremony. The wedding was set for July 4, 1836, and the marriage was actually performed on that date by Rev. Abraham Lucas. Like many newly weds, the bride and groom led a cat and dog life until the disastrous fire in 1841 brought them finally together, after which they became one indeed.

There are many theories as to how the name "Grenada" was selected for the united towns. The most plausible theory is this: in 1832 Washington Irwing wrote "The Alhambra" which was the best seller of that day; the Alhambra was located in Granada, Spain; the word "Granada" was anglicized by substituting "e" for the first "a", making "Grenada."

The building of what afterwards became the I. C. System through Grenada, which therefore had depended upon boats on the Yalobusha River for transportation of freight, gave Grenada a substantial boost just prior to the outbreak of the War for Southern Independence. The extension of the Y. and M. V. Railroad from Parsons to Grenada, giving Grenada a line to connect with the Delta at Greenwood, in 1900, added greatly to Grenada's growth and prosperity.

Grenada furnished its quota of men to the Southern armies; it survived the hideous days of Reconstruction; it shared with other cotton country towns the vicissitudes of low prices and small yields; its population was reduced almost to one-half by the terrible yellow fever epidemic of 1878; it felt the ill effects of the failure of two private banks in the 80's, but it has pushed steadily forward, each census showing a substantial gain. The greatest gain was in the last decade, 1930-1940, when the population rose from 4,349 to 5,728.

Interdependent are Grenada and Grenada County of which this city is the county seat. Grenada County was formed from parts of Carroll, Choctaw, Yallobusha and Tallahatchie on May 9, 1870. Grenada County is a well drained body of land. The Yalobusha River runs through it from east to west; Bogue River comes in from the south, while Skuna River comes in from the north. Grenada county's financial condition is good. The last county wide obligations sold were sold on a 2¼ percent basis. The county's bonded debt has been reduced over $400,000 during the past decade. The most recent auditor's report shows that Grenada County's assets exceed its liabilities by over $848,000.00.

Since the beginning of the AAA program, Grenada County is rapidly being transformed from a cotton and corn country to a cattle country. Many fine herds of cattle, both large and small, are to be found grazing in this county. The principal tilled crops are, of course, cotton and corn. More and more soy beans, peas and other soil building crops are being planted, as the years pass. So much for Grenada County.

Approximately 1200 persons are employed in industry in and about Grenada. This figure does not include the many workers in the ground-hog saw mills, nor part time workers in cotton gins.

Some of the more important industries and institutions are briefly described below:

Grenada Industries, employing about 300 persons, has a payroll of approximately one-quarter million dollars a year. It produces the finest of silk hosiery sold in the best stores in the largest cities. This is an industry which was established under Governor White's BAWI law.

Allen Cooperage Company with its two local subsidiaries Grenada Box Company and Grenada Stave Company, employs about 215 persons.

Belgrade Lumber Company, manufacturers of hardwood lumber, normally employs about 100 men.

The Bell Telephone System has its branch office in Grenada. About 25 persons are employed there.

The Federal Compress and Warehouse Company, which handles between one-third and one-half of the South's cotton, had its beginning in Grenada. The capacity of this, the parent plant, has been multiplied many times since it began operation over forty years ago. From 20 to 65 men are employed there. This is one of the few high-density compresses in the State.

Gooch Lumber Company, manufacturers of hardwood lumber, and located about two miles north of Grenada unually empdoys 40 men.

Grenada Oil Mill, which was so well managed that it survived the period when every town had an oil mill (Grenada once had two), is now one of a much more limited number in the state. Depending upon the season, from 10 to 30 men work there.

Phillips Lumber Company, manufacturers of pine lumber, gives employment to about 60 men. This does not include a larger number who work at the "feeder" ground-hog mills located near the standing timber, nor the truckers who haul in the green lumber.

The Illinois Central Railroad employs 116 men here, all at good wages.

The City of Grenada is served by the Mississippi Power & Light Company which has its district office here. Twenty-five men and women are employed by this office.

The Wood Preserving Corporation, located at Tie Plant in the suburbs of Grenada, employs about 165 men. As the name indicates this company processes timber with creosote and zinc to lengthen its useful life.

The Grenada Grocery Company which does a million dollar business employs about sixty or seventy men and women. This is one of the largest wholesale grocer companies in North Mississippi. Its delivery trucks go in every direction from Grenada.

There are in Grenada retail dealers in all popular automobiles. Aprpoximately 100 persons work in these retail agencies. It is noteworthy that Mr. J. H. Neely, president of the Grenada Auto Company, brought the first Chrysler car into Mississippi and that he, so far as continued work in retail car business, is the oldest in Grenada and one of the oldest in the State. It is also noteworthy that The Oliver-Lilly Motor Company, Ford dealers, is one of the three largest dealers in Ford products in the State. As stated, the above list is not complete for there are many garages, a first class machine shop, many smaller saw mills and other small industries—all employing men in this community.

Grenada City Schools, of which Mr. John Rundle is Superintendent, have a total enrollment of 1672, of which 1038 are white and 614 negro. The white school plant consists of a modern high school building, a well-preserved grammar school building and a new primary building and a new gymnasium. The colored school was remodeled during the CWA era.

In addition to the Grenada County Library which is housed in the Community Building, there is a splendid library at the high school.

There are three newspapers in Grenada: The Grenada Sentinel, established before the War for Southern Independence, and The Daily Star, both published by Mr. Frank Jones, Sr.; and The Grenada County Weekly, established in 1937, and published by the writer of this article.

There are two banks located in Grenada: The Grenada Bank, with 12 branches whose assets are included in those of the parent bank, and The Grenada Trust & Banking Company. Total assets as reported on June 30, 1941 were $7,162,251.89 and $531,030.57 respectively. It is worthy of note that the smaller bank has never passed a dividend in its 38 years of existence and that during its existence it has paid out an average of 15 percent per year on its capital of $2,000.00.

Grenada has churches for the usual Protestant denominations and a new Catholic church. The members of the First Baptist Church recently built one of the most handsome churches in North Mississippi following a fire which destroyed its fifty-year old building. In June of this year the Methodist paid their last note. All of the churches except the First Baptist which still has a relativel small debt are fully paid out.

Grenada has an abundance of clubs for both men and women. The Lions the Rotary the Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees are the leading civic clubs for men. The American Legion has a progressive post. The ladies have musical, study and civic clubs. The Chamber of Commerce has had a hectic existence here. Its homes alive, then somnolant. At the present time it is very much alive and is seeking an army camp for this area and is working on the location of a plant to process sweet potatoes. Five years ago, when Mr. J. B. Perry, Jr., was president, it helped locate Grenada Industries, Inc., here.

Grenada is just about sixteen miles from the Delta. There are numerous lakes in the delta section of this county and Tallahatchie County. A more rigid enforcement of the game and fish laws in this section has resulted in a great amount of fish and small game, as well as deer. Many Grenada people avail themselves of these opportunities to hunt and fish during open seasons. Grenada has a splendid golf club and many members. The high school usually has a good baseball team and a good football eleven.

Statistics show that Grenada enjoys a very low death rate, in fact one of the lowest in the South. The WPA and the City have cooperated in building malaria control ditches, with good results. The water in the city mains has been analized and its analysis is almost identical with that of the famous Waukesha (Wisconsin) water. Grenada Hospital which recently added 12 private rooms to its old capacity of 50 beds and the Grenada Clinic, both of which are equipped with most modern means of diagnosis and treatment of disease and for the care of the injured people, contribute greatly to the low death rate.

The city tax rate is 29 mills, while its bonded debt is $241,000. Within the past five years Grenada has paved practically all of its unpaved streets. No street of any importance whatever is unpaved. Grenada invested about $60,000 in erecting a building for Grenada Industries, Inc. Grenada has spent thousands of dollars in recent months in extending its sewer lines and its water lines to serve its growing population. Grenada is preparing to add to its water storage capacity to take care of the growing needs of the city.

Due to adequate water supply and to an efficient fire fighting organization, Grenada enjoys a very low fire insurance rate. Knocking on wood, Grenada has had but one "large" fire in fifteen years.

Grenada has two motion picture theatres, The Grenada Theatre and The Pix Theatre.

Within a fifty mile radius of Grenada, there are 325,000 people. Within a fifty mile radius of Jackson there are 248,000 people. Within a fifty mile radius of Meridian there are 187,000 people. Within a fifty mile radius of Natchez there are 195,000 people. These figures were developed by the Mississippi State Planning Commission, and they carry their own story.

Grenada is at the junction of the main line of the I. C. System and the I. C. line that goes through Jackson, Tennessee and on to Cairo. A. Y. and M. V. R. R. line connects Grenada with the Delta at Greenwood. Paved U. S. Highway 51 passes through Grenada. State Highway No. 8, now almost completely paved, leads from Grenada to Aberdeen. Hardsurfaced State Highway 7, from Holly Springs to Greenwood, passes through Grenada. These highways, supplemented by a country road system which is almost completely graveled, gives Grenada an all-weather outlet to all parts of the State and Nation.

Midway between Memphis and Jackson, midway between the Mississippi River and the Mississippi-Alabama line, Grenada is indeed the "Crossroads of North Mississippi." On account of the pride that its citizens take in their homes and their premises, on account of the pride the City of Grenada takes in the cleanliness of its streets, alleys, parks and public places and on account of the fact that so many of the ladies of Grenada maintain beautiful flower garden, Grenada has earned the name "The City Beautiful." Grenada's slogan is "Come, live with us and enjoy our many blessings."

The Tragic Truth

The following article by Joe Folse and appearing in the Jackson Daily News recently contains the truth, but the truth is tragic:

The War Department at Washington on June 17, announced the following new plants and locations totaling $89,825,600; $25,000,000 of this amount was for an addition to the Alabama Ordnance works, at Sylacauga, Alabama, thus bringing the total for this one unit in Alabama to about what Mississippi has received up to date. Other projects were:

Hope, Ark. $15,000,000, proving ground.
Marche, Ark., $16,750,000, piric acid plant.
Monroe, La., $15,000,000, amonia plant.

These states were not required to put up one thin dime. There will be employment for over 40,000 men on those jobs.

As to West Mississippi particularly, we are assured electric power and gas reserves are ample.

With regard to total defense funds allocated, we find this:

In the four weeks ending May 15, 1941, contracts and expenditures totaled about $300,000,000, of which ten Southern states, including Mississippi, received but $11,000,000 or 3.67 percent. The North and East, as usual, got most of this huge sum.

The Office of Government Reports, in a recent statement about defense contracts, stated that the astronomical sum of $14,000,000,000—yes 14 billions—allotted between June 1, 1940, and April 30, 1941, the same ten Southern states received less than $2,000,000,000, actually about 6½ percent.

The North and East got most of this huge sum as usual, and Mississippi, as usual, got comparatively little.

Director Roland Wall of the WPA anounces the severance of 9,000 from the relief rolls in Mississippi, representing a monthly payroll of $300,000. The government has certainly created employment in bordering states, but this is not true of Mississippi, as the record shows.

The skilled labor supply is growing less day by day in Mississippi—our labor is being syphoned to industries in the bordering states, and to the far reaches of our country.

Mississippi, the poorest state, is growing poorer.

It appears that migrating to other states is the only thing our people can do to find work.

One distinguished personage at Washington writes that the large industrial units who operates for the government, are gun shy of Mississippi because of its record of harassing business and industry. He points out that Mississippi has attracted some fine plants, but after they are here a little while, our fee system hounds them to death. No other state tolerates such policies.

We continually boast, the purest strain of anglo saxon stock, and we applaud any speaker when he suggests, that unless we have guts enough to run the Communists out of labor organizations and high places in the departments at Washington, as George Morris, of the Commercial Appeal points out, the Reds are going to wreck us as they did France. Conditions prevailing in the nation, except the South, supports that fear.

Unless we can clear the blood stream of America of the deadly virus of Communism, Hitler won't have to invade America. Our first job is to clean out Communism. Beating Hitler is of secondary importance. Men at work and not on relief will simplify the task.

Moreover, in proportion to population, we have more volunteers in the armed services of the nation than any state. We are loyal to the government and doing our best to support it. Why are we ignored?

Of equal importance it would seem, the South has one-third of the voting strength in congress, and united, the South would get its share, but with all of these cardinal virtues and potential strength, we seem to lack something! What can it be?

Let us continue to hope and pray, someone in authority in Washington will in time, rediscover Mississippi, its resources, and just due, and do us justice.

We do firmly believe one thing and that is this: that the junior member of the dissolved firm of "Me and Mike" had better stick to athletics and leave politics alone.

A senatorial race is booming up ahead. Unless we change our mind very radically, we do not expect to have anything to say about it—and this should be helpful to the person, not yet known to us, for whom we will vote. In fact, at the present moment the senatorial race is a matter of supreme and superlative indifference to us.

Since a red bug does not particularly care who he gets on—soldier or civilian, I will pass the information given us on down to the reader. Get a small amount of powdered sulphur (about a nickel's worth), put it in some small container and before going into the woods powder shoes and pants legs. This done regularly will keep the critters in their own homes. Louisianans swear by it.

Close to 1000 bakers are already in the maneuver area awaiting the arrival of the 300,000 soldiers who are going to participate in the annual war games in August and September. Their bakery, which the war department says is the "World's largest," will supply 225,000 pounds of bread daily to the men.

The most comical sight I've had the pleasure of witnessing in quite awhile was a tank attack and the breaking up of it. Trucks with red crape paper around them represented tanks while the anti-tank platoon in this battery use automatic rifles as weapons. During a recent attack every available man, including Col. Lake and Major Winter, with sticks and pine burs gave these simulated tanks a good chase through the woods. Of course, such doings is child's play and helps little if any in training men to stop a real tank. However, one has to do something to break the monotony.

Wonder what our overseer, George Terrell is doing these hot days. I guess he's still passing by the Grenada Trust Bank every Monday morning and going to Dyre-Keuts to get his check cashed; he's still buying a girl a box of cherry candy and doleing it out piece by piece; still has his German Police dog and the 25 foot seagrass rope around its neck; that he's still getting his weekly haircut, shave, shampoo, massage and shoe shine at the ground hog barber shop and, last but not least, giving himself an embrace or hug every now and then.

Under The Magnolia Tree

By HERBERT ALLEN

It must be gracefully conceded that, with the exception of beautiful women, gorgeous flowers, or exquisite objects d'art, distance lends enchantment to most natural scenery, and to virtually all of the works of man.

As recently as ten years ago there was little to command the great northern cities to the esthetic sense. But conspicuous advances have been scored, in comparatively recent years, by New York, Chicago and Washington.

It is especially pleasing to note these fine examples of civic beautification, for they are the exceptions and by no means the rule.

In Detroit, the view from the Penobscot Building is especially drab, being relieved solely by the winding Detroit River and the vernal beauty of the Canadian suburbs beyond its shore. (Pardon my Canadian accent!)

From the Golden Triangle in Pittsburgh there is usually no view at all, if Pittsburgh is in its normal industrial stride. When the Smokey City is in its glory the beautiful valleys of the Monogahela, Allegheny and Ohio Rivers are hidden from view by a smoke screen which would be the envy of a commander of a flotilla of naval destroyers.

Utility, and not beauty, has been the theme of the builders of America's industrial empire. But Chicago is finding it both pleasant and profitable to combine both of these essentials of the modern metropolitan city.

Never has Chicago's industry and commerce flourished in greater prosperity than at the present time. Expansion is the order of the day. The great steel mills and the world's largest oil refineries were particularly noted as being keyed to the highest pitch in the effort to match the national defense requirements.

In Mississippi we are probably more familiar with the orange and black of Illinois state license plates than with those of any other distant state. Chicago's great merchandising organizations cover the Magnolia State with an expert thoroughness. Conversely, many Mississippians have occasion to visit the Windy City on social and business errands.

In Chicago, the literal hub of the famous loop district is the lofty tower of the Morrison Hotel, and we have the good fortune to occupy an apartment on the southeast corner, on the thirty-seventh floor. From thos altitude the delightful and inspiring view is one we cheerfully commend to those having occasion to stay overnight in the nation's second city.

At night, the scintillating brilliance of the electric necklaces with which Miss Chicago is wreathed, are a magnificent enchantment of the nocturnal beauty. The colorful glow of evarmine tinted neon gives her just the essential touch of rouge and lipstick that the modern mode demands. At this height, all the traffic noise inseparable from a great city is pleasantly muted, giving an etheral atmosphere of unreality to the striking night panorama spreading fanlike from our windows.

By daylight, the cool majesty of beautiful Lake Michigan reaches over to the horizon. In the foreground a series of launches, yachts and sailboats ride smoothly at anchor. The famous Lake Shore Drive hugs the shore line and broad bands of concrete ribbon the parkway, carrying a heavy traffic of what appears, from this altitude to be miniature automobiles.

Arrayed below, from Northwestern University to the Board of Trade, are a line of finely designed sky scrappers in which are located the offices of many of the nation's largest corporations.

As the eye follows the curving shore line of Lake Michigan southward, the great steel city of Gary, Indiana, comes into view. And directly across the lake, dimly visible on the nebulous horizon, is the state of Michigan.

We all enjoy beauty, comfort and convenience. And to have them all combined to such an unique degree, and still remain in the Loop, is an exhilerating experience.

From A Rebel Hill Top

By The Grenadier

Writing in Washington revives pleasant memories of certain favorite subjects to which I devoted years of intensive effort, three of which were as involved and complex as they were interesting nd instructive. Among these were, the freight rate structure of the United States; the labyrinths of American constitutional law; and the mysteries of the Japanese language.

At one time I was designated on the payroll of the Treosury Department as a transportation expert—as I write these lines my window faces toward the austerely magnificent building which houses the United States Supreme Court—and nearby, on the banks of the picturesque Pontotoc River is Georgetown University, where I was initiated into the subtleties of Orient al languages.

At that time it was my intention to make the Orient my home, and my ambitions were directed toward a career in the American diplomatic service in the Far East. Naturally I have retained an active interest in contemporary Japanese affairs, and at no time has the course of events in Japan been so absorbingly interesting, nor fraught with more serious potentialities to the Anglo-Saxon world.

The career of the Japanese Foreign Minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, who was the principal personality to be eliminated from power in the latest of the recurrent cabinet changes in Tokyo, affords an illuminating insight into the policy of the small ruling caste in control of Japan's obscure destiny.

The Japanese are almost entirely devoid of the powers of originality—but they have the faculty for following the least desirable of the behavior patterns set by the western world, with disconcerting zeal.! Never was this imitative trait of the Japanese more fragrantly revealed than in the ambitions and disastrous effort of Matsuoka to imitate Hitler's foreign strategy of dalliance, deception and duplicity, when he signed a neutrality pact with Salin in Moscow just recently.

Matsuoka, and Japan, did not sign that pact with any consideration save that of their own convenience. To have it operate in Russia's favor was farthest from their intentions. So the cabinet was reshuffled, and Matsuoka is out in the cold because of his error.

But errors of this variety are a serious thing in Japan. For there the Emperor is not only ruler, but God also! Even in Japan, it will not do for too many mistakes to be made in full view of all the people. Such exhibitions are almost sure to stir considerable uneasiness among the Emperor's subjects.

To be educated in an English speaking country is a great advantage to an ambitious Japanese, and Matsuoka was graduated from the law school of the University of Oregon. He probably returned to Japan with the hope of putting into practice, with true oriental chicanery, some of the more devious technique of American corporation lawyers which he had heard in his law classes. But this wiley Jap lacked the fourth dimension essential to success when imitating a genius like Machiavelli.

It has been some years since I have been in Japan, but it is less than three years since I have been in the Malay archipelago. At present the region, reaching from Bering Straits, off the coast of Alaska, to the island of Tasmania, souht of the main island of Australia, is very much in the public mind.

The grave importance of what is likely to develop into the Far East is little understood in the United States. The position of Japan is, more interesting from many points of view than is German's mighty effort to secure domination of the world. Because so little of the Japanese point of view is known in this country, in the next two issues, I am going to write first on the Dutch East Indies, taking each island individually, and then on Siberia and Asiatic Russia.

Do you know, for example, that the little island of Java has a greater population than England? That in Louisiana there are less than fifty persons to the square mile—but that in Java there are over eight hundred to the square mile. Yet there are impenetrable jungles in Java still infested with tigers.

Do you know that the island of Sumatra is larger than California, and has a greater population? Boreno, the home of the famous head hunter stories of our boyhood days, is larger than the state of Texas

Concluding the second article, I shall give the reasons which will determine whether we do, or do not, go to war with the Japanese Empire.

Another paper is being added to the large Memphis bundle. Mrs. F. W. Huffstatler, formerly of the Gore Springs community, now is getting the GCW.

MEMORANDUM OPINION

In Re: Senatorial Election, September 23, 1941.

The number of inquiries coming to this office with reference to the special election to be held September 23, 1941, to elect a United States Senator indicates that there is a great deal of confusion as to the requirements of the law as respects the payment of poll taxes, as well as the matter of registration of voters. To clear up this confusion, I think it is proper that the following memorandum be issued.

The special election to be held on September 23, 1941, will be governed by the general election laws and not by those relating to party primaries. Since the Corrupt Practices Act of 1933, and amendments thereto, relate only to party primaries, such act will not be applicable to the Sept. 23rd election.

POLL TAX

A voter must have paid poll taxes for 1939 and 1940 on or before February 1, 1941. In this election it is not required that these taxes shall have been paid annually on or before February 1 of each year, but if they were paid at any time on or before February 1, 1941, the constitutional requirement is satisfied.

A voter will not be required to submit his poll tax receipts to the election officials in this election unless challenged. If challenged for non-payment of poll taxes, the election official may require the voter to produce his receipts.

REGISTRATION

A voter must have been registered at least four months prior to September 23, 1941. Any voter who was registered on or before May 23, 1941, will be, as to this qualification, eligible to vote.

OTHER ELECTIONS

In certain counties, elections have been called to fill vacancies in office. In those ases where a local election has been called and September 23rd has been fixed as the date, it is proper that the same ballot should contain not only the names of the candidates in the Senatorial election but also the names of all candidates to be voted on in the other elections.

Telephone Users To Save $20,000 To $25,000

In commenting upon Order No. 9202 of the Mississippi Public Service Commission abolishing the report charge on interstate telephone calls, Chairman H. H. Casteel of the Commission gave out the following statement:

"Our Commission has reached an agreement with a responsible official of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company in connection with report charges on interstate telephone calls to the effect that said charges are to be abolished from and and after 12:01 a. m. July 10, 1941, which will result in a saving to telephone users in Mississippi of between $20,000 and $25,000 annually.

"It is proper at this time to review some of the acomplishments of this Commission during the past six or eight years as a result of cooperation with Southern Bell officials in securing a large number of rate reductions and adjustments through conferences rather than litigation. The charge for a hand set or cradle type telephone was reduced twice and finally eliminated entirely, as a result of which all subscribers may now enjoy the use of this equipment without extra charge for the service. Also, substantial reductions were made in connection and move charges which have not only been a great benefit to subscribers who moved from one location to another but new customers were able to have service installed at a considerble reduction in many instances.

"Telephone officials claim that because of the large number of small exchanges in Mississippi, many of which are operated at a loss, and which represent a considerable investment the net return on the entire investment in the state is low, while the tax bill is high as measured against the taxes paid by the company in other states. Statements on file with this Commission show that the tax bill has increased during the past ten years from $7.65 to $11.59 per telephone per annum, while the total annual telephone per average company telephone has been reduced $2.20 per telephone during that time. It is also interesting to note that the total tax bill paid in or allocated to Mississippi is considerably in excess of the net revenue.

"The greatest benefit probably which has accrued to telephone users in Mississippi is the result of the large number of places which have been able to secure improvements in service in changing the old magneto system to the common battery or flash light, all of which was brought about by cooperation on the part of the telephone officials, the public and this Commission, all working together in harmony to secure the improvements.

"Our records indicate that since 1936 twenty-three exchanges in the state have secured a common battery or flash light system replacing the magneto system, while prior to that time there were only thirty exchanges in the state having such a system. At 61 exchanges throughout the state the magneto system has been replaced with the dial system, Jackson not included. Six new dial exchanges have been established at Goodman, Pace, Ethel, Belmont and Baldwyn.

"At the insistence of members of this Commission and a substantial number of prominent citizens of Smith County, Southern Bell officials have been prevailed upon to extend its toll service from Laurel to Taylorsville, Raleigh and Mize and establish a dial exchange at Raleigh and Taylorsville. At this time Smith County is just about isolated until the new service is established which will be prior to January 1, 1942.

"By cooperating with Southern Bell officials, we were able during the early part of last year to secure new low rural exchange rates and telephone service has already been extended to a large number of rural communities which heretofore did not have any service.

"The Company has promptly met every request made upon it for service in connection with national defense, including Camp Shelby at Hattiesburg and the Air Fields at Jackson and Meridian, together with the large shipbuilding plant at Pascagoula. Work will soon begin to serve the new Air Fields at Biloxi, Columbus and Greenville. All of this work is being done with the hoep that the service will be required and continued over a long period of time; otherwise, the Telephone Company will have made a substantial investment upon which it will receive no revenue.

"According to statements on file with this Commission, during the past nine years the Southern Bell's investment in the state has increased from approximately $16,000,000 to nearly $21,000,000 and we believe by reason of this fact that Mississippians today are receiving telephone service through modern equipment as good as is to be had anywhere in this country."

A good many dogs have been poisoned this week. That's a lowdown way to kill a dog. Bilbo got a dose, it seems.

— Mississippian Awarded Medals for Heroism —

"The President's Medal", one of the highest awards within the gift of the National Safety Council, was presented to Lonnie Gibbons, of Grenada, Miss., at a public ceremony in recognition of his heroism and skill in rescuing a negro, Houston Mayhew, from drowning.

Mr. Gibbons, foreman of the Grenada Division line crew of Mississippi Power & Light Company, rescued and successfully resuscitated the negro, a member of his crew, when he got caught in a whirlpool in the Yalobusha River near Grenada.

The presentation in behalf of the National Safety Council was made by President Rex I. Brown of Mississippi Power & Light Company who also presented Mr. Gibbons with the "Rex I. Brown medal", a 10-carat gold award given to company employes for acts of heroism.

Four other members of Mr. Gibbons crew were awarded "Meritorious Service" certificates of the National Safety Council for "valuable assistance" in the resuscitation of the negro. They were: C. C. Bobbitt, W. R. Schultz, L. H. Bobbitt and W. W. Andrews.

According to the National Safety Council citation, Mr. Gibbons and members of his crew gave the negro drowning victim resuscitation for 20 minutes before he showed signs of life and continued to work for him for one hour and twenty minutes longer before he resumed normal breathing.

A talk by Captain H. T. Lee, of the State Highway Patrol, and a sound movie, "Safety for Defense", shown by R. B. China, safety director for Mississippi Power & Light Company, were other features of the interesting presentation program which followed a banquet in the Grenada Community House.

C. V. McKell, division manager of Mississippi Power and Light Company, presided at the function which was attended by more than 100 persons, including Mayor R. W. Sharp, of Grenada; Mayor R. E. Williams, of Charleston; Mayor W. T. Terney, of North Carrollton; Mayor Rupert Ringold, of Winona, and other prominent citizens of North-Central Mississippi.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

The world is sometimes upside down,
And troubles come by ten;
And you go 'round with puzzled frown
Or sometimes mocking grin;
But that's the stuff that you must bear,
To show of what you're made of
Show the world that you don't care,
And show the stuff you're made of.

It's hard sometimes to be that way,
When everything is wrong,
But keep on smiling every day,
And sing your little song,
For then the dark clouds roll away,
And the sun begins to shine,
It changes night time into day,
And leaves your troubles far behind.
—James R. Hale.

This poem, I believe, denotes the feeling of many hungry, homeless Europeans of today. They probably dream of a land like America. In this poem I have tried to bring their dreams into words. This poem is dedicated to the millions of unhappy people that are sacrificing their homes and lives for the things that America already possesses.

OH, AMERICA—I DREAM OF THEE!

Distant shore across the sea,
Distant land that beckons me,
Sweeping land of gold and spice,
Thy name to me is paradise.

Waving fields of golden grain,
Rolling prairies parched for rain,
Rushing rivers majesty,
All these treasures belong to thee.

Would that I were child of thine,
Would that peace and love were mine,
Would that freedom here could be,
Like distant land across the sea
Oh, America! I dream of thee!
—James R. Hale.

It's a whole lot better to go out and watch horses run or pace than it is to drink liquor on Sunday, get fresh with other men's wives or to sit on the front porch and gossip about every person who passes along the street. Horse racing on Sunday might well be a lesser of the evils.

Special note to "Charter Members": this is the last issue of the GCW for which you have paid. You will note that this is No. 52 of Volume 4, which means that your subscription is "out" with this issue. It is too damn hot to make out subscription bills, so please send in your dues and receive a reward in Heaven and an honorable mention in the GCW.

Do not ask me about your old age pension of 15.00 per month. I did not promise it.

A "Charter member" is a subscriber who started with the GCW with Volume 1, Number 1, back on August 5, 1937. We do not want to lose a single one of them. Most of them subscribed before we had a press or a building to put a press in, bless their hearts. They just subscribed for an idea.

Dink Thomason must be fighting boll weevils, for he has not been in town in blows. However has only been gone three days in the past six months.

Keene Buffin and the boys who were digging the fence holes, setting the posts, ramming in the dirt and nailing on the rails have about finished the fence. (The race track, Keene did some heavy supervising, but no sweating.

What we have to do is bring women and the home into the community and make women realize that their life is not bounded by the four walls of their flats or homes; we must make them realize that in the future they must see themselves as citizens of the world with all their privileges and responsibilities. Pearl Buck.

COPYRIGHT 1941

Under our democracy woman first formed an active partnership with man in their joint task of improving the lot of humanity.

And in the American woman's singular triumph, labor-saving conveniences played a part. Household electric appliances released her from many washtub drudgeries, that her energy and talent might be directed to the building of a better citizenship.

Surely, whether our democratic way of living is preserved for our children, depends as much upon woman's active patriotism as upon any other arm of our national defense.

Woman's superior moral and spiritual strength can save us. More than ever before she gives serious thought to our economic, social and political problems. Through study circles, garden groups, business and professional clubs, church societies and parent-teacher association, she already changes the complexion of communities.

The employees of this company are glad that electricity steadily advances the American way of life—that it is a good influence in the ever-expanding sphere of woman's greater usefulness. Modern electric services give you the time to help make democracy work.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On Thursday afternoon twelve little friends of Patricia McElwrath gathered at the lovely country home of the McElwraths, south of town for an afternoon of informal entertainment, celebratiug Patricia's twelfth birthday. Patricia was most happy in the role of hostess and delighted in escorting the children to Perry's Creek on the farm where they enjoyed "going wading," also to the old fashioned swing in the grove, where happy hours were spent. Over the embers of the fire in the barbeque pit, they enjoyed toasting marshmallows and weiners. Mrs. McElwrath served lemonade, watermelon, cookies and buns for the weiners, all of which made the grown ups wish longingly that they may forget their dignity and be children again, even as Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote:

"Oh to be a boy
With a heart full of joy,
Swinging on a grapewine swing."

In the late afternoon the children returned home, all declaring Patricia's party one of the best ever.

P. S. We forgot to mention the prize, (a dime packed in about ten small boxes) was given the guest who found the most "doodle bug" holes. That, in our opinion, is too good to keep.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

This poem was first published in the Atlantic Monthly of September, 1867 under the following caption and explanation:

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

The women of Columbus, Miss., animated by noble sentiments than are many of their sisters, have shown themselves impartial in their offerings made to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on the graves of the Confederate and of the National soldiers.—New York Tribune.

The example set by these noble women so impressed the American people that it prompted the setting aside of one day in each year for the purpose of strewing flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of the dead and, as I said, inspired Judge Finch to write his immortal poem, The Blue and the Gray, in which he said:

By the flow of the inland river:
Whence the fleets of iron have fled,
Where the blades of the grave-grass quiver,
Asleep are the ranks of the dead.

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the one, the Blue;
Under the other, the Gray.

These in the robings of glory,
Those in the gloom of defeat,
All with the battle-blood gory,
In the dusk of enterity meet.

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Under the Laurel, the Blue,
Under the willow, the Gray.

No more shall the war cry sever,
Or the winding rivers be red:
They banish our anger forever
When they Laurel the graves of our dead,

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day;
Love and tears for the Blue,
Tears and love for the Gray.
